Matthew's Trilogy of Parables: The Nation, the Nations and the Reader in Matthew 21:28-22:14 (Society for New Testament Studies Monograph Series) By Wesley G. Olmstead

Wesley Olmstead examines the parables of the Two Sons, the Tenants and the Wedding Feast against the background of the wider Matthean narrative. He explores Matthew's characterization of the Jewish leaders, assessing the respective roles of Israel and the nations in the plot of Matthew's Gospel. Against the current of contemporary Matthean scholarship, Olmstead argues that these parables indicate the future inclusion of other nations in the "nation" that God had promised to raise up from Abraham.

Editorial Review

Review

"[Olmstead] demonstrates solid redaction critical study, good narrative impulses, and carefully nuanced exegesis." Journal of Evangelical Theological Society, Jeannine K. Brown

"Olmstead has made an important contribution both to the study of parables and to the study of the first Gospel as he has welded narrative and redaction-critical methods...This book is valuable for scholars as well as serious students of the parables and of Matthew's Gospel." - The Journal of Religion Barbara E. Reid, Catholic Theological Union at Chicago

"Olmstead has produced a most valuable and timely study of these parables and the light they cast on the question of the nation and nations. His arguments are balanced, carefully developed and compelling." - J.R.C. Cousland, University of British Columbia

"This study is so carefully and cautiously done that there is very little to criticize." - Charles H. Talbert, Baylor University, Waco, TX

"This monograph is a reworking of his 1999 Ph.D. dissertation written at the King's College London..."
--Southwestern Journal of Theology
